

Cambridge Center Ethics Conference August 7, 2020 CE Questions and Answers

David Cox, Ph.D., MSB, BCBA-D

Presentation Title: Moral Philosophy, Ethical Theories, and Applied Ethics What is one way to think about the relationship between morality and ethics?

1. There is no difference, the terms are interchangeable.
 2. Morality is focused on what's "right" and ethics on regulating groups of people.
 3. Morality is focused on the individual and ethics on the group.
 4. Morality includes religious claims whereas ethics does not.
2. Which ethical theory argues there's no such thing as objective right and wrong, and what matters is the agreements made between a client and a practitioner?
 1. Consequentialism
 2. Contract Theory
 3. Deontology
 4. Virtue Theory
 5. Ethics of Care
 3. Which ethical theory argues that what's most important is to follow the rules most appropriate to the context we're in?
 1. Consequentialism
 2. Contract Theory
 3. Deontology
 4. Virtue Theory
 5. Ethics of Care
 4. Which ethical theory argues overly-focusing on universal rules and impartial, impersonal decision-making misses the point of what ethics is about?
 1. Consequentialism
 2. Contract Theory
 3. Deontology
 4. Virtue Theory
 5. Ethics of Care
 5. Fill in the blanks. _____ ethical behavior is what is considered 'right' behavior.
_____ ethical behavior is why that behavior is considered 'right'.
 1. Descriptive, normative
 2. Normative, descriptive
 3. Descriptive, Justificatory
 4. Prescriptive, Justificatory
 6. Why is it important to understand the ethical theory we use to make ethical decisions?
 1. Ethical theories are logically incompatible
 2. Ethical theories sometimes suggest incompatible responses in the same situation
 3. Ethical theories provide benchmarks for ethical policies and trainings

4. All of the above