Dear Families and Stakeholders:

There is a lot going on lately on both a state and national level as the number of positive cases of COVID-19 are on the rise. We are reviewing our protocols and processes daily to ensure the safety of the individuals we serve and our staff. We will continue to host our Family/Stakeholder Zoom meeting every two weeks, with our next meeting being held on November 4th at 5:00pm. We will move to weekly meetings if it becomes necessary.

We are pleased to announce that Lorri Unnumb, Esq., an international leader in the autism community and CEO of The Council of Autism Service Providers, will be joining us next week on our call. Following her firstborn son's diagnosis with autism, Lorri began working in autism advocacy as a volunteer, writing ground-breaking autism insurance legislation for South Carolina ("Ryan's Law") that passed in 2007 and served as the catalyst for the national movement toward autism insurance reform. In recognition of Ryan's Law, Lorri was awarded the Autism Society of America 2008 "Parents of the Year" award (along with her husband Dan). She then was recruited by the New York-based nonprofit Autism Speaks to advocate full-time on behalf of individuals with autism. As head of state government affairs, she testified more than 100 times on health insurance issues in legislatures throughout the United States and beyond and led an autism insurance reform effort that resulted in 50 states requiring insurance coverage for autism. Lorri will give us some perspective as a family member and the leader of a national trade association regarding the impact of COVID-19 on the provider community nationally.

Please forward any questions you may have for Lorri, or any other questions/issues that you may have to Contact@AmegoInc.org.

Thank you,

John Randall
President and Chief Executive Officer
